NR 439 Week 7 Capstone Project

Capstones allow nursing students to synthesize their knowledge, experience and scholarship from their RN-BSN course work in the form of a proposal paper and presentation. Capstones also promote the development of critical self-reflection, goal setting and creativity and help develop and hone professional skills.

Student presentations are evaluated for clarity of topic, adherence to any time limits set by the faculty, ability to answer questions and cite references, and persuasiveness. Students are also required to complete a post-presentation self evaluation, which can be found on the Capstone Project Topic Selection and Approval navigation menu as a Microsoft Word file under the Week 7 assignment link.

During this week, you will develop a first draft of your Capstone Proposal Paper. Your Capstone Proposal Paper is due at the end of the week in which you sign up to present (see the schedule below for specific dates). Submit the first draft to the assignment link in the online course. A completed capstone project is a requirement for graduation from the RN-BSN program.

NR 439 Week 8 Capstone Project

The Capstone Project oral presentation portion demonstrates your ability to convey complex nursing topics and present them clearly for your audience. This is an essential skill for nurses, particularly in a professional environment where communication is key to patient safety and overall patient outcomes. The final Capstone submission must be free of grammatical and spelling errors, and nurs fpx 4050 assessment 1 according to American Psychological Association (APA) style.

The Practicum venue depends on your MSN specialization and may include hospitals, medical examiner's offices, public health departments, or clinical practice settings. Aspen instructors are proud of the impact that our students make in their communities through Practicum and Capstone projects.
